DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in-

(1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effect under this subsection of a national application published under section 122(b) only if the international application designating the United States was published under Article 21(2)(a) of such treaty in the English language; or

(2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that a patent shall not be deemed filed in the United States for the purposes of this subsection based on the filing of an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a).

2. Claims 1 and 3-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Bedford et al [Pat. No. 5,639,497].

Bedford et al teach a cooking device comprising a cooking enclosure (Figure 1, #1), an infrared heat source (Figure 3, #12), a motor powering a fan which draws in ambient air as well as circulating heated air (Figures 2-3, #13 & 15; column 6, lines 32-50), an adjustable vent (Figure 3, #49; column 4, lines 59-68), and rotating food support spits not located in the center of the plate (Figure 1, #5 & 29). Furthermore, the phrase "whereby air temperature inside... of heat inside said enclosure" in claim 1 is merely a preferred method of using the claimed apparatus and as such is not given patentable weight.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 2 and 7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Bedford et al as applied above, in view of McFarland [Pat. No. 2,898,437].

Bedford et al teach the above mentioned components. Bedford et al do not teach the spit and fan being powered by the same motor. McFarland teaches a cooking device comprising an enclosure (Figure 7, #10'), a radiant heat source (Figure 7, #36'), and a motor which powers both an air circulation fan and a spit (Figure 7; #64', 66', 116). It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to incorporate the single motor construction of McFarland into the invention of Bedford et al since both are directed to convection ovens with rotary spits, since Bedford et al already includes a spit and fan with their respective motors (Figure 2, #13, 15, 31), and since the single motor construction of McFarland teaches the desirability and simplicity of having one motor run both the spit and the fan (column 5, lines 49-57) and the resultant savings in weight, cost, and power consumption to name but a few advantages.

Response to Arguments

5. Applicant's arguments filed September 5, 2002 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Art Unit: 1761

Applicant argues that Bedford et al does not teach spits rods not located at the center of the plate. However, Figure 1, #5 & 29 of Bedford et al clearly illustrate plates with spit rods not located at the center of the plate. Applicant appears to be confusing the central drive shaft illustrated in Figure 3 with peripheral spit rods (#29). The central drive shaft is also illustrated in Figure 2.

Conclusion

6. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
